Daylis Caballero Vega attains this year's 5th best pole vault mark at the FasTrak Summit of the South

(Houston, TX. December 21st, 2019)

Daylis Caballero Vega jumped to the 5th best pole vault height in the world at the FasTrak Summit of the South Pole Vault event in Houston this weekend. A mark of 4.30 M bested a field of elite female pole vaulters that also included Anika Newell of Canada and Jessica Johnson of Auburn.

Steve McBride, FasTrak's General Manager is quoted as saying: "This was our inaugural, pole vault only competition and we were thrilled to have no less than three world class vaulters amongst the ranks of the women in the field. This is an event that will grow exponentially, and we look forward to hosting both aspiring vaulters and some of the world's best for years to come."
